URGES CHECK-UP ON READING PROGRAM IN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Suggestion Comes From
Charles H. Boehm, Assistant
County Superintendent

PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Cost of Education is One of
The Principal
Topics

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 4.—A plea for a lobby in Harrisburg for the school directors to be as powerful as the teachers' lobby, the urgent need for a check-up on the reading program of the schools of Bucks county, and a discussion of more equitable methods for raising revenue by means of taxation, were among the highlights of the meeting of several hundred members of the Bucks County School Directors' Association, Friday afternoon, in the Bucks County Court House.

Last night the school directors met in joint session with the school teachers who held their own separate meeting on Friday afternoon.

Warren F. Strawnsnyder, of Pleasant Valley, president of the directors' association, presided.

The association unanimously endorsed a resolution advocating the passage of the eighth amendment to the Pennsylvania constitution to be voted on next Tuesday at the general election. The amendment deals with appropriations for school and institutional purposes.

Declaring that "something is radically wrong with the present system of taxation," Ezra Miller, Newtown township director, was the first of two speakers on the subject. "More equitable methods for raising revenues by means of taxation,"

"Our system of taxation is entirely out of date," Mr. Miller continued, "and especially the method of collecting taxes. The tax load is on the real estate owner, and the load is too great. Whether you own your property clear or not, you are assessed for the whole property value and pay taxes on that entire assessment."

"Let me inform you that 10 per cent of the population of the country receive their incomes from the public treasury and much of that money is not taxed a cent. The intangible wealth of this country should pay its share of taxation. I do not believe in a sales tax myself, and will say right here that no system has so far met the situation as well as the income tax."

Another speaker on taxation was William H. Mood, member of the Perkasie school board. He pointed out that in time of depression the taxation proposition always arises but that very little is said about it in times of prosperity. He admitted there was something wrong when one community like Dublin has a school tax rate of 6 mills while Morrisville in the same county has a school tax rate of 27 mills. Mr. Mood suggested a state income tax, corporation tax, inheritance tax, utilities tax or sales tax as more equitable systems.

Mrs. Mary E. Havens, Solebury township director, spoke on "The High School Problem and the Tuition Costs Involved." She stated that in Solebury township the parents are paying what she deemed, a super-tax for education. Solebury township, she continued, pays $5631 in tuition annually to outside high school districts for the education of their boys and girls in addition to an amount more than that for transportation. She stated that Buckingham township pays $2749 annually and Plumsted township pays $5040 annually not counting any transportation costs.

"I am not a student of finance, but I would like to leave this thought with you for consideration; it seems that something is wrong," Mrs. Havens declared. "The three districts I mentioned spend $25,000 on education annually outside their own districts."

The discussion was carried on by Luther Waldeich, director of the Sellersville school, and a member of a Philadelphia school faculty.

"The trouble with things today," Mr. Waldeich started out, "is that there have been two scapegoats of this depression that have been outstanding; one is government cost and the other is the cost of education. The American people have taken it upon their shoulders to attack the secondary educational system. They say there are too many frills and things that are not essential. That may be true. Many of the frills were placed there as a result of public opinion but now the school system in general is getting the blame."

"Not for one minute do I think that $9 a month is too much for any outside district to pay for a pupil's tuition when that pupil comes into a town that spends a lot for the maintenance of its educational system. I know of one district in Bucks county where it has been figured out that the cost per pupil for those living in the town amounts to $135 annually compared to $90, the amount of tuition paid by the non-residents."

"I think, if we as school directors, do not represent a class of people better equipped to say what shall take

UNIDENTIFIED MAN IS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Discovered in a Clump of Bushes, off Highway, near Fallsington

MAY BE HIT-RUN VICTIM

FALLSINGTON, Nov. 4.—An unidentified man, unconscious, was found in a clump of bushes yesterday just off the Lincoln Highway, near here. The man is believed to be a hit-and-run victim or else he was taken for a "ride" by some gang. He is in a critical condition in the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J.

The man, who is suffering from a severe laceration of the scalp, shock, and possible fractures of the skull and jaw, had not regained consciousness early this morning.

While marks on the highway showed that a person was probably struck and dragged by a car about 150 feet from where the victim was found, police were puzzled by the fact that his shoes could not be found.

Blood marks on a wire guard rail and bushes indicated that the man was dragged off a side road paralleling the highway and dropped into the bushes. He is believed to have been there for several hours before he was discovered.

The victim, who is about 38 years old, was fairly well dressed. There was nothing on him to definitely identify him, but he did have in his pocket a small note book containing the names and addresses of several Philadelphia and New York dentists and physicians. The name "John Vacco," with no address given, was also written in the book. He also carried a pocket Bible.

The door handle of an automobile found at the place, about a mile and a half below the Fallsington underpass, where the marks were discovered in the road, might furnish a clue to solve the case.

The victim was found by Joseph Vargo, of Keasbey, N. J., a truck driver, when he stopped his machine to inspect his cargo. He notified the South Langhorne Highway Patrol and Patrolman Francis Kelly hastened to the scene. The victim was placed in a passing machine and taken to the hospital at Trenton, N. J.

Dividends From A Good Policy

NAME, if you can, another community of 12,000 population in the State of Pennsylvania that has, like Bristol, two parallel concrete highways running through it, a large part of the cost of the borough section of each having been lifted from the shoulders of the local taxpayers and borne by the County and State.

Can you think of one? Neither can we. Bristol seems to have been considerably more fortunate in that respect than any other town of its size in the State. Why? And how come?

Things of that sort don't just drop from the skies "like the dew from heaven." Not at any time. They're not just happy accidents. Yet we don't seem to recall any hullabaloo or high pressure in the matter, before, during or after the event, in either case.

Still, we have the highways—and that part of the money they would have required if the County and State had not participated. What's the answer?

Well, it's simple enough. No mystery about it at all. In the final analysis it resolves itself into a matter of wise judgment on the part of the voters of Bristol.

Do you, for a single moment, think that the local government of Bristol could have brought in the financial co-operation of the County government if there had not been a completely harmonious relationship between them?

Or do you for a moment think that they, together, could have procured two main highways and the financial co-operation of the State in the construction of each, if there had not been a harmonious relationship between the borough and County governments on the one hand, and the State Administration on the other?

And can you think of a time in the last dozen years when the situation has been any different?

The voters of Bristol have wisely seen to it that their local government was one which would work in perfect harmony and which, in turn, would maintain these harmonious relations throughout. This policy has paid the citizens of Bristol in innumerable instances, in actual and provable dollars and cents.

Under these circumstances, and upon this record, the Republican candidates who are up for re-election on Tuesday next feel that they have the right to ask for your continued support.

House

SHOW MUCH INTEREST

(Special to Courier)

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 4.—About 300 people attended a Republican mass meeting held last evening in the Community House, at which the principal speaker was Ex-Governor Edward C. Stokes of New Jersey.

In his remarks Governor Stokes attacked the plan of recognition of Soviet Russia stating it was a Godless country and that America had nothing to gain with alliances with European countries.

He flayed the European countries for failure to pay their war debts and felt confident that the Republican party would be back in power at the next national election.

The meeting was presided over by William H. Howell, who introduced Thomas B. Stockham, who spoke on the Republican platform of lower taxes. Mayor Stockham stated that with increasing national taxation it would be necessary for local governments to reduce the tax burden. He also stated the candidates on the Republican ticket were prominent citizens who will serve the community well, faithfully and long. He further said, that the riverfront improvements in Morrisville did not cost the citizens one cent, "it was all private enterprise."

Mayor Stockham introduced the candidates who included: Dr. William H. Kunsman, candidate for justice of the peace; Neal Nolan, candidate for tax collector; the candidates for school directors, Alvin R. Pratt and J. Leslie White, and the absent candidate, William F. VOTERS TO RECEIVE THREE BALLOTS ON ELECTION DAY

Should Not Be Confused By The Large Number

URGED TO VOTE EARLY

Can Vote Republican Ticket
By Marking Cross In Party Square

Voters when they enter the various polling places to cast their ballots on Tuesday should not be confused when they are handed three ballots by the election officers. Each voter will have plenty of time to vote and will be given ample opportunity to study the ballots while in the voting booth.

It is the request of the election officers, however, that voters visit the polling places as early during the day as possible, so that there will be no confusion and rush during the closing hours. Voters who have the opportunity are asked to "vote early." The polling places will be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m.

One of the three ballots will carry the regular county and local tickets and the 12 proposed amendments to the state constitution; another is what is commonly called the "repeat" ballot. On this the voter will express his or her choice, either for or against repeal of the 18th amendment. The third ballot is termed the "sports" ballot. On this "sports" ballot the voter will give his or her preference for or against Sunday baseball and Sunday football.

The voter is urged to take the three ballots into the booth, read each one carefully and mark each ballot separately, according to the instructions printed thereon. Each ballot should be carefully folded before the voter leaves the booth and then taken to the ballot box and deposited therein.

Unlike at the Primary election held September 19th, the voter on Tuesday, can vote by marking a cross (X) in the Republican party square to be found on the ballot.

Travel Club Women Listen To Two Speakers

The difficulties experienced in meeting conditions of the present day were mentioned, with the attendant problems. Mr. Grundy likewise touched on the experiment being tried now in this country, and ended his address by quoting from an editorial by Frank R. Kent, which appeared in the November 1st issue of the Baltimore Sun, entitled "The Great Game of Politics."

Mrs. Hugh B. Eastburn told of the 12 proposed amendments to the state constitution, giving the decision of the League of Women Voters on each.

Mrs. Horace H. Burton, president of the club, was in charge of the business transactions. Mrs. Charles L. Bowen pleased with two vocal numbers, with Mrs. Marburg D. Wagley acting as accompanist. The attendance at this meeting was very large.

A meeting of the discussion group was announced, this to occur at the home of Mrs. Eastburn on Tuesday afternoon. At next session of the club the members will be guests of Edward Lynn, manager of the Grand Theatre, at the theatre, on Friday afternoon, November 17th.

ENGLAND FEELING BETTER

The view expressed by J. P. Morgan, on returning from abroad, that recovery is taking a definite and broad form in England should serve to encourage those Americans who may be still inclined to look with skepticism on the situation in the United States.

Recovery in any part of the world is of interest in every other part. Just as the depression spread from one nation to the other, the upturn is likely to take the same course.

"England is getting along very well," said Mr. Morgan, breaking his rule against granting interviews. "There is a distinct improvement. Heavy industries, railways and trade are definitely better and are still improving. Unemployment is steadily decreasing and seasonal unemployment has not taken place. The basic industries are all improving and the whole feeling in England is that things are getting better."

Until recently, it appeared probable that recovery in England would be slower than in the United States. The government there has failed to attempt any radical experiments in an effort to hasten recovery but has confined its efforts along this line to a strengthening of the natural forces rather than to the inauguration of new and untried means.

The important thing is that recovery is taking place at different points throughout the world. The cause of this is less vital than the fact.

CARE IS NEEDED

Michigan's experience in trying to cope with a crime wave which is common to the country may serve as a warning to other states contemplating preventive steps without giving due consideration to constitutional limitations.

The supreme court of Michigan has declared invalid a so-called public-enemy law enacted in 1931 and aimed particularly at racketeering. The court declared that hoodlums could not be held guilty of criminality merely on the basis of their reputation. Under the new statute, "proof of recent reputation" of having engaged in an illicit business was made prima-facie evidence of guilt.

Such a provision, said the state's highest court, was in conflict with the constitutional mandate that a defendant is presumed to be innocent until proved guilty.

The great increase in crime has caused many radical proposals to be put forward as remedies. Such a situation gives rise to the danger that materialized in Michigan.

New laws may be necessary in combating crime, but care must be exercised that none of the fundamental rights guaranteed citizens under the constitution are invaded or violated.

The Great Game of Politics

There have been so many and so radical changes from the platform and policy of the Democratic party, that an article appearing in the Baltimore Sun, one of the outstanding Democratic newspapers of the country, is of common interest.

The article is taken from the column written by Frank R. Kent, under date of October 31, and published in the Sun on November 1. It reads:

THE ONLY JUSTIFICATION

Washington, Oct. 31.

AS THE PRESENT situation in the country is viewed, it is clear that the New Deal program has neither failed nor succeeded. The whole business is still in the experimental stage. It may yet be either a colossal success of a calamitous flop. As to that no one can tell—not even those who operate the program in Washington.

WHAT MR. ROOSEVELT has done is to meet an emergency by striking out on new lines, described by himself as experimental, and concededly a departure from so-called basic principles not only of the Democratic party but possibly of the Constitution itself. To justify this, his experiments must turn out successfully. When you depart from the rules you must be right. If a soldier in the army disobeys orders and the result is bad, he is court-martialed and shot. If it turns out well, the breach is forgotten and the hero decorated.

THE SITUATION, so far as Mr. Roosevelt is concerned, is that at this time no one can be sure that he has been right in departing from the rules—not even himself. There is no uncertainty about his boldness, his initiative and his energy. But the soundness of his plans remains to be proved. In no way is this better demonstrated than by the admission of those closest to him that his new monetary policy has not been tried before. There being nothing with which to compare it, no one can be sure how it will work—not even Professors Warren and Rogers, who devised it.

IT IS AN open secret that some of Mr. Roosevelt's fiscal advisers are extremely skeptical and privately critical of the plan. It is understood, too, that Professor Sprague, official financial adviser of the Treasury, did not recommend it; nor Mr. Woodin, the absentee Secretary of the Treasury, nor Mr. Acheson, his able young Under Secretary. It is also true that there is division among the operators of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, the constitutionality of which has been questioned more than any other. Some of the men managing this experiment want to go in one direction, some in another.

RECENTLY THERE has been resurrected by those who feel that the Constitution has been disregarded in the most dangerous part of the program, an excerpt from an opinion written in 1862 by Mr. Justice David Davis, of Illinois, appointed to the Supreme Court by President Lincoln. In dealing with the right of the Government to suspend writs of habeas corpus, the justice wrote:

"Time has proven the discernment of our ancestors; for even these provisions, expressed in such plain English words that it would seem the ingenuity of men could not evade them, are now, after the lapse of more than seventy years, sought to be avoided. Those great and good men foresaw that troublous times would arise, when rulers and people would become restive under restraint and seek by sharp and decisive measures to accomplish ends deemed just and proper; and that the principles of constitutional liberty would be in peril, unless established by irrevocable law. The history of the world had taught them that what was done in the past might be attempted in the future.

"THE CONSTITUTION of the United States is a law for rulers and people equally in war and in peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men, at all times, and under all circumstances. No doctrine involving more pernicious consequences was ever invented by the wit of man than that any of its provisions can be suspended during any of the great exigencies of government. Such a doctrine leads directly to anarchy or despotism, but the theory of necessity on which it is based is false; for the Government, within the Constitution, has all the powers granted to it which are necessary to preserve its existence; as has been happily proved by the result of the great effort to throw off its just authority."

THESE ARE, of course, impressive words. They will be effective only, however, if in due course of time it is not clear that the promises held out by the President for sweeping aside the barriers are in large part redeemed. If they are not, then the learned justices words will be damaging indeed. Having departed from the accepted rules, you must be right.

CHAPTER FIFTY-TWO

Dorothy and Jerry were dancing near the end of the room but she had a clear picture of the entire party. Jerry was a cute dancer but after three years Dorothy knew all of his tricks. She wondered if that was the way married people felt about dancing and playing bridge and telling stories; if they had gone over the ground so often that in each of their minds was a mental road map with the curves and detours well-mapped. Jerry was all right, a good kid and diverting; but he was an old story now and not exciting. She supposed that when lovers reached this stage they either drifted apart or passed inevitably to a relationship with more cylinders. Jerry was giving evidence of higher-powered stuff but Dorothy wasn't inclined to follow with Jerry. He sparked but there was no explosion. Then something leaped within her.

"Well," she said, "there's Tom." Jerry turned calmly. "Good old Jeff," he said casually; then, with more vigor, "I wish he would go to Madagascar or some place and get himself six wives."

Dorothy smiled. Tom was dancing toward them, steering a direct course. "Who is the girl?" Dorothy asked.

"Cousin of Connie's from Pittsburgh. She's dopey about him—or she was before she met him."

"Why didn't you tell me he was coming, Jerry?"

"I'm not the monkey's press agent—hello, Jeff—how's the Great Lover?"

Tom ignored the thrust. "Hello, Jerry—hello, Dot. How about a dance?"

Dorothy made his direct approach; then the way he looked at her; the way he held her when they danced—and the suspicious inquiry of the young lady from Pittsburgh.

"Well—how's the Great Lover?" Dorothy asked.

His smile was a bit cynical. "Did you see my picture? Then why ask? Gable got frightened and had me barred. That's why I'm not going back."

"Oh! I didn't know that, Tom. Why aren't you?"

He said frankly: "You know I was a bust, Dot. They just capitalized on my name for one picture. It's okay."

"But you weren't bad at all, Tom—really. And you could have learned."

He shook his head. "Maybe I could have hung on, I don't know—but I never really got the feel of it; then they tried to get me to do a lot of goofy stuff and I popped off to some little man who turned out to be somebody else's brother-in-law—so no option. I knew it before I left."

"But didn't you like Hollywood? I should think it would be terribly interesting."

"Oh, it's a hot town and the women are all right. I did all right."

"Then I'd think you'd want to stay."

"Well," he said, "this may sound funny but I got kind of homesick. I don't know, Dot, you travel around and meet a lot of people and they pat you on the back but after awhile it all gets tame and you want something real again."

"And you have to come home to get it."

He looked directly into her eyes and said candidly: "And you have to come home to find it."

"Your mother must have been happy today, Tom."

"Yes—but I didn't have just her

"Oh, of course—your father and Pete."

"Sure—and Uncle Louie and Cousin Emmy and the dog."

"Your mother is a very fine person, Tom."

"She always speaks well of you, too. How's your folks?"

"Oh, they're fine—they always speak well of you."

"Oh, yes—particularly Grandma."

They laughed. Dorothy inquired: "And how is Elaine?"

"Just dandy—and good old Freddy. I hope Jerry's been well?"

"Very well, thank you, Tom—when you get back to her will you explain to your Miss Pittsburgh that I'm just an old friend?"

His voice was warm and good-natured. "Sure, I'll explain; and you tell Jerry to take it easy, too; that Randolph, the Great Lover, is just as hot off the screen as on."

The music stopped and they swung alone silently for a moment; she turned from the ball room to the corridor and he followed.

"Tom—will you tell me something?"

"Shoot."

"Why were you so friendly that night of the Yale game?"

Neither looked at the other as they strolled away from the chatter and the crowd.

"Because that was the day I discovered I'd been playing Johnny Sap—and," he hesitated momentarily and then plunged on, "I just wanted you to know you had been right about me."

"The setup was all against you, Tom, from the beginning."

They reached the end of the corridor and stood, watching the street four flights below. "Not altogether, Dot. I knew what I was doing, all right. I wasn't kidding myself about what I was there for and I knew what fellows like Jerry thought—all of the athletes know what they're brought in for. But I was going to crash—it's been done."

"And what happened?"

"Oh, I was never quite happy about it; I did cheap things—and every time I saw you, you threw a harpoon of some kind into me, so that every time I thought of you it got to be the same, and I was kind of lousy to the folks at home. It had been boiling up in me—and that day somebody said something and I exploded."

"You were glorious, Tom—I was so proud of you that day."

"Well," he said, as if throwing away ballast, "that's that—"

He turned and smiled frankly. "Now hadn't we better get back to Jerry?"

"Tom," she said slowly, "now what—where do you go from here?"

He laughed a curious laugh—cynical but tinged with good-nature. "Well, I've been scouting around for the last month among the victorious alumni—you know, the dear old boys who pat you on the back when you beat Princeton?"

"And —"

"Well, it seems I'm not so popular as I was; and times are bad and jobs are scarce; and so the Great Randolph, All-American and Great Lover, is in the army of the unemployed."

"Nothing in sight, Tom?"

"Next Fall I can play pro football, probably—and there may be a job on the coaching staff—but not for Tom."

"Why?"

"It's all part of the racket, Dot—roses in the spotlight and bricks out of it I'm washed up—this time when I make a move I'm going to have both feet on the ground and belong."

His voice was strong and his fists clinched. Something in Dorothy responded to his enthusiasm. "Good boy, Tom."

He continued: "The grandstand will be empty and there'll be no bands, no microphones, no alumni, no student body to cheer the dying gladiator—and there'll be no dying gladiator, either. How's that for a speech, Dot—am I good or not?"

"Okay, Tom old boy—but you're wrong on one point—the grandstand won't be empty. There'll be your mother and father and Pete and his Steve and Cousin Emmy and Uncle Louie—and at least two, Whiteys."

"And the rest," said Tom Randolph, "can go take a flying leap for themselves!"

"Shake!" Dorothy's eyes were shining, her body tingling. There was plenty of spark in this red-head and she was near the explosion point. But Jerry and the Pittsburgher came down the corridor.

Jerry, seeing them, mused: "I wonder how it is in Madagascar?"

"Madagascar?" the young lady asked.

"It's okay," he answered, "we'll let it pass."

Mom often looked back at that happy Christmas and wondered how things could change around so in just a few months, how everybody could change clear around in so little time; of course it had been little by little, changing a little bit more each time Tommy went away to look for a job and then came back; but Mom could hardly believe people could be so funny, from the millionaires on down to the people in town—even Charlie Whitney seemed a little bit funny.

It all began with the movies; when the news came out he wasn't going back they all claimed they said from the beginning he would never make any actor; but Tommy told Mom they were all kind of crazy in Hollywood and that was why he didn't go back; and Mom could see what he meant from the way the coach had acted in the movies, bawling him out when anybody could see Tommy knew more than he did—of course that was just in the play but it went to show the way they acted. Pop said he had had the right dope on them from the beginning, that they were no good and just a lot of drunks and he told everybody he didn't want Tom mixed up with them; Louie said yes, how about when you give me an argument about that hunky and Pop said, what hunky? And Uncle Louie said, you know what hunky; and Pop said Uncle Louie was talking through his hat and he better be careful or he wouldn't have any hat because it looked like it had been rung through a wringer, anyhow; which wasn't very kind for Pop to say, Mom thought, because Uncle Louie couldn't help it if his old deer was getting all cracked in places. The whole thing hurt Uncle Louie's feelings because he had always been neat as a pin and a good dresser and Mom even remembered the night he wore a stove-pipe hat on the platform when Bryan had come to town to speak. Uncle Louie had been busy all over the place, important as anything and Mom remembered how proud she had been of him just as if it was yesterday.

place in education, then we are not fit to hold our jobs as school directors." Walter Miller, Middletown township school director, struck a popular note in the convention when he discussed the talks of the previous speakers. He declared that he has been badgered by people continuously about the tax rate until now it is very little joy to be a school director. He said that it was his opinion that it was time for directors to "get together and organize for some good," stating that at the present time he doubted very much whether you could find three of Bucks county's director membership who would agree on any subject.

An interesting account of tests and measurements given in Bucks county during the past year was presented by Charles H. Boehm, associate superintendent of schools of Bucks county. He told of the urgent need for a check-up on the reading program of the Bucks county schools and urged that all school boards urge that the measurement tests be made in all schools to determine what progress is being made and what improvements are needed. One test showed that in 11 out of 16 schools the geography book was the best text book. Reading and literature fell way behind in many of the schools so far tested.

"Our boys and girls of today should not be denied the very best," Superintendent Boehm declared. "They should have the very best in text books and technique. Let us strive to put reading first. Have put in your school budget a certain amount of money that will be specifically allocated for library purposes."

A Newtown school director, Mr. Moffett, said that in his opinion it was not a school director's duty to save money but to give the child the best education that is possible. He said that it seemed to him that the assistant county superintendent's survey showed that in Bucks county, in schools already examined, it is not only a matter of better equipment but better and more efficient teachers as well.

Assistant Superintendent Boehm replied by saying that it is true that many good married teachers, now unemployed, may be the salvation of the one-room school.

County Superintendent Hoffman announced that his office would like to have the authority to check on all the sixth-grade pupils in the county.

The emergency relief program in Bucks county was outlined briefly by County Superintendent Hoffman, who stated that eight teachers will be available in the county to teach various sorts of classes to which students between 16 and 40 can attend so long as they are unemployed. The money is to be provided by Federal appropriation and the classes must be organized within the next two weeks.

Dr. Ralph M. Fox, of Morrisville, a former president of the county teachers' organization, who appeared for the last time before the association as a director, said that he was one of those directors who had "both ears taken off at the last election."

Dr. Fox urged the directors to organize their own lobby just as strong as the teachers' lobby so that they could have something to say in education.

"There is something wrong with the school system," he continued. "The school code is unjust in many ways. Every time a person in Doylestown puts his hands in his pockets to produce $1 for education, down in Morrisville it is necessary to produce $2 to get the same thing.

"The teachers' retirement system is not what it should be. It costs Morrisville about 1 mill a year in tax. If a person is to get a pension in old age that person should pay all of the bill in building up that pension money, otherwise, why not all of us share in it?"

"The Edmunds Act is not altogether sound, either, in my estimation. Why should a teacher, more than any other profession, be guaranteed a certain salary when he or she goes to work? The doctor and the lawyer and the rest of us are not protected by such a law!

"Where has there been any law produced whereby the people—the school directors—who run the schools, have something to say about what shall be done in education? Let's organize, and when you go to Harrisburg have some definite program to put across and work until you get it across."

MONTH AFTER MONTH death takes its toll of humanity. Both poor and rich are taken from earthly griefs or joys. It takes the insured as well as those who did not insure, but what a difference that makes to those who survive.

It is better, by far, to pay a few pennies each week during life in order to have insurance in a proper amount for the payment of the charges caused by death.

You should think of relieving your kin from financial burdens which death imposes.

This list tells you of some of the death claims we paid in July and August of this year.

SPORTS

Y. M. A. BOYS WILL APPEAR ON GRIDIRON

Thomas Smoyer's Y. M. A. football team will play its first game before home fans tomorrow when it will meet the strong Vasey A. C. from Philadelphia on Sullivan's field at 2:30 o'clock.

Coach Smoyer feels that in this game the local supporters of the Radcliffe street boys will see the best aggregation he has been able to get together this season, and he has his men in great shape.

The starting line-up will in all probability be fields at left end; Court, left tackle; Bills, left guard; Tunis, center; Flatch, right guard; Davis, right tackle; Bell, right end; Roe, quarterback; Whitaker, left half; De Blassio, right half, and Unruh, full-back.

For reserves Smoyer has Kervick, Crowthers, Bono and Earle for the backfield, with Baines and others for line positions. Manager Edward Lavenburg hopes that the fans will come out in large numbers.

PIGSKIN PUNTS

By Juno

Five victories, no defeats, and still going strong. That is the record of the St. Ann's eleven thus far this season. To top off this record nary a touchdown has been counted against them, although a field goal was scored.

Credit must be given where due and I must say that the Purple and Gold team is going places. Remember that this organization was crowned the Bristol Twilight League Baseball champions last season.

Speaking to the players of the squad, I find that the boys are extending all the credit to the coaching of "Mike" Deltisi, former tackle of the West Chester State Teachers College.

The Alumni team scored two touchdowns to beat Bristol High, a defeat which hurt, as it has been many a day since an Alumni team put it over on the younger boys. The local high plays Fallington today and let's hope that it is not a repetition of last season when the Falls boys defeated Bristol, 6-0.

The Trojans, coached by "Henny" Morgan are fighting with a 5-0 average. Four wins, four defeats, and a tie. The team has had ninety-three points scored against it while it has chalked up fifty points. Not a bad record for a team that had a slow start, failing to score in the second, third, fourth, and fifth games of the season.

The Furmans who concluded its home stand has a ledger of a victory, a defeat, and two deadlocks. The Purriers play Roselyn away on Sunday.

Y. M. A., after playing away for five weeks, will open on Sullivan's field Sunday, playing the Vasey A. C. The Y's, after trying Kingston in its opening game, has yet to chalk up a win.

The banner game of the Bristol season will take place on St. Ann's field, November 12 when the Doylestown A. A. team meets the St. Ann's A. A. As far back as I have traced the records, no Bristol gridiron team has ever put it over the countyseaters.

With the brand of football now being exhibited by the Saints it will not be surprising to see a Bristol eleven bowl over Doylestown. The old A. A. team, as good as it was, could not stop Doylestown, although the water-dogs tied them twice.

Sticklers are now being passed out by members of the St. Ann's organization to increase the intense rivalry between the two teams and a grand time will be in store for the local pigskin followers.

YARDLEY PARTY

YARDLEY, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Robert C. Belleville, Jr., Sunday School Class celebrated Halloween by a party on Monday night in St. Andrew's parish house. Those attending: Miriam Ambler, Eleanor Caffey, Cleone Kaufman, Betty Fetter, Helen Giege, Annette Gallagher, Rebecca Parr, Marion Rembo, Phyllis Knight, Evelyn Weber, Harriet Weber, Altheda Spangler, Gladys A. Harper, Mrs. Robert C. Belleville, 3rd, Mrs. Albert Colclough, Mrs. Arthur Stackhouse.

NEWPORTVILLE

The "Cheerful Workers" of Newportville Church Sewing Circle met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. L. Keen.

The Halloween party sponsored by the Newportville firemen in the fire house resulted in a gay time. There were 60 children of the vicinity participating. Twenty prizes were given. Those receiving prizes were: Mary Jane Owens, Catherine Mullen, Richard Goodbred, Charles Martin, Eva Burkhardt, Charles Everett, Robert Martin, Janice De Wees, Henry Hartman, Grace Lewis, Edward Cassidy, Wesley Bilger, Marian Snyder, Irvin Moore, Harold Taylor, John Becker, Frank Everett, Bertha Hartman, Anna White and Frederick Muth. Fifty pounds of peanuts were "scrambled" for, followed by serving of cakes, cider and apples.

SIXTH VICTORY SOUGHT BY ST. ANN'S ELEVEN

With five straight victories tucked under their belt, the St. Ann's A. A. football players will go after another game tomorrow afternoon when it tackles the fast York A. A. gridiron club.

The "Saints" will be after this game strong tomorrow as on the following Sunday the Doylestown Blue Sox will pay a visit to St. Ann's field.

Coach "Mike" Deltisi practiced twice this week and today will take out the boys and run through four new plays. These plays will be tried against York and by the time the Sox come here will be worked to perfection.

Last week for the first time the Purple and Gold were outscored in the number of first downs and the eleven will seek revenge at the mercy of the York team. The York club is composed of a fast backfield which gave Tacony a scare last week.

The Bristol team will be weakened by the injuries of "Tink" Spadaccino and "Turp" Tershon. Spadaccino, a lineman, is out for the remainder of the season with a fractured shoulder. Tershon has a sprained arm which he hopes will be in shape for the Doylestown match.

Last Sunday, the Saints looked like a much improved team with the acquisition of "Henny" Kornstedt in the line. Kornstedt worked with Cataline and Angelo on the left side of the line and broke up many of Kearney's plays.

Another lineman reported this week to Coach Deltisi. "Socks" Seneca, one of the best linemen ever produced on the sandlots of Bristol, practiced with the club. Seneca, unfamiliar with the new style of play, will rest this week and then show his wares in the Bucks County championship game with Doylestown.

The opening kick-off will take place at 2:30 sharp.

Vote The Republican Ticket WHY?

THIS, BEING AN ODD NUMBERED YEAR, THE LEGISLATURE HAS WISELY DIRECTED IT BE CONFINED TO THE ELECTION OF LOCAL OFFICERS, COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL.

NO NATIONAL OR STATE ISSUES ARE INVOLVED, AS THE REPUBLICAN PARTY OF BUCKS AND LEHIGH COUNTIES, THROUGH THEIR RESPECTIVE COUNTY COMMITTEES, PLACED THEIR PATRIOTISM ABOVE PARTISAN CONSIDERATION AND DID NOT NOMINATE A REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS TO SUCCEED THE LATE HON. HENRY W. WATSON.

FOUR OF THE COUNTY OFFICES ARE TO BE FILLED AND THE ELECTION CONCERNS LOCAL GOVERNMENT ONLY.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES FOR THE COUNTY OFFICES PRESENT THEIR CANDIDACY TO THE PEOPLE ON THEIR INDIVIDUAL ABILITY, INTEGRITY AND FITNESS FOR THE OFFICES TO WHICH THEY ASPIRE.

THEY ALSO GO BEFORE THE PEOPLE ON THE SPLENDID RECORD AND ACHIEVEMENT OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN THE PAST IN THE MANAGEMENT OF THE COUNTY AFFAIRS.

WHAT HAS THE REPUBLICAN PARTY DONE FOR BUCKS COUNTY?

JUST ONE OF THE MANY THINGS THE REPUBLICAN OFFICIALS HAVE DONE FOR YOU, MR. TAXPAYER, IS TO GIVE YOU A FOUR MILL TAX RATE, THE LOWEST TAX RATE OF ANY OF THE SIXTH CLASS COUNTIES IN THE STATE.

THE COUNTY TAX RATE IN 1928 WAS SIX MILLS. FROM 1929 ON DOWN, RIGHT THROUGH THE DEPRESSION, THE RATE WAS REDUCED EACH YEAR UNTIL IT IS NOW ONLY FOUR MILLS.

BUCKS COUNTY, A SIXTH CLASS COUNTY, HAS THE LOWEST TAX RATE, THE SMALLEST INDEBTEDNESS, THE SMALLEST INTEREST CHARGES AND THE LEAST BONDED AND PER CAPITA DEBT OF ANY OF THE COUNTIES OF ITS CLASS.

IN DETAIL THESE COMPARISONS ARE AS FOLLOWS:

(1932 Figures, unless otherwise noted)

	Population (1930)	Total Expenses	Interest Paid	Tax Rate Mills (1933)	Bonded Debt	Per Capita Debt
BUCKS	96,727	$684,782	$ 7,665	4	$ 128,000	$ 1.32
BUTLER	80,180	$66,273	76,423	8.5	1,710,000	21.69
CARBON	63,380	404,405	95,894	11	1,971,000	31.10
CLEARFIELD	86,727	353,218	14,109	8.5	1,300,000	14.99
CRAWFORD	62,980	546,124	69,766	12 (1931)	1,494,000	28.72
INDIANA	75,395	600,461	107,391	8.1	2,825,000	37.17
LAWRENCE	97,258	617,431	43,065	6.5	1,125,000	11.61
LYCOMING	95,421	432,696	27,394	8.5	590,000	6.11
MCKEAN (1931 figures)	55,167	481,432	29,065	12	350,000	6.34
SOMERSET	80,764	547,170		12	2,012,000	24.91

UNDER REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION, BUCKS COUNTY HAS OBTAINED 375 MILES OF STATE ROADS MORE THAN ANY OTHER COUNTY OF ITS SIZE, IN THE STATE. IN ADDITION, THERE ARE 420 MILES OF ROAD UNDER THE PISCOT PLAN, MAKING A TOTAL OF 795 MILES OF ROAD UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.

IN THE PAST, $290,507 HAS BEEN APPROPRIATED TO TOWNSHIPS AND BOROUGHES FOR ROAD PURPOSES.

ELEVEN INTER-STATE TOLL BRIDGES ACROSS THE DELAWARE RIVER WERE FREED AND THROWN OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.

SEVENTY-NINE NEW BRIDGES IN ALL SECTIONS OF THE COUNTY WERE CONSTRUCTED AT A COST OF $738,182. 280 BRIDGES ARE NOW MAINTAINED BY THE COUNTY.

THE EXTENT, THE STATE BUILT AND TOOK OVER THE COUNTY ROADS AS WELL AS THE FREED OF THE DELAWARE RIVER BRIDGES COULD NOT HAVE BEEN ACCOMPLISHED, IF THERE HAD BEEN A DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION IN BUCKS COUNTY DURING THE PAST YEARS. THE REASON BEING, A DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION WOULD NOT HAVE HAD THE CONTACT OR CO-OPERATION WITH THE REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION AT HARRISBURG, SUCH AS THE REPUBLICAN ADMINISTRATION HAD THROUGH ITS STATE SENATOR AND REPRESENTATIVES.

HOW HAS THE TAX RATE BEEN KEPT AT SUCH A LOW LEVEL?

BY HONEST, INTELLIGENT AND CAPABLE MANAGEMENT, ELIMINATION OF WASTE AND ADOPTION OF ECONOMIC POLICIES.

THERE ARE NO SOFT JOBS OR "DRONES" EMPLOYED BY THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OR BY THE TOWN OFFICERS. ONLY THE MINIMUM NUMBER OF EMPLOYEES REQUIRED TO PERFORM THE WORK IN EVERY DEPARTMENT OR OFFICE, BEING EMPLOYED.

AS PART OF THE PROGRAM WHICH RESULTED IN THE REDUCTION OF THE TAX RATE TO FOUR MILLS IN 1933, WAS A SAVING OF ALMOST $10,000, FOR THE REASON THE EMPLOYEES OF THE COUNTY RECEIVED A CUT IN THEIR SALARIES FROM 5 PER CENT TO 10 PER CENT AND ELECTED OFFICERS VOLUNTARILY AGREED TO A REDUCTION OF 10 PER CENT IN THEIR SALARIES FOR THE YEAR 1933.

A FEW MONTHS AGO THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS IN AN EFFORT TO FURTHER RELIEVE THE BURDEN OF THE TAXPAYERS, RECOMMENDED TO THE TOWNSHIP AND BOROUGH ASSESSORS THAT THEY MAKE A REDUCTION THIS YEAR OF 10 PER CENT IN REAL ESTATE ASSESSMENTS.

NON-PARTISAN GRAND JURIES YEAR AFTER YEAR, HAVE TIME AND AGAIN COMMENDED THE CONDITION, OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE OF THE COURT HOUSE, JAIL AND ALMSHOUSE.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

ARTHUR M. EASTBURN, FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

MR. EASTBURN, THE PRESENT DISTRICT ATTORNEY, NEEDS NO INTRODUCTION TO THE PEOPLE OF BUCKS COUNTY. HE HAS PAID STRICT ATTENTION TO THE BUSINESS OF THE OFFICE, EMPLOYING METHODS RESULTING IN DECREASED COSTS TO THE TAXPAYERS, ALTHOUGH BY LAW ENTITLED TO TWO ASSISTANTS. MR. EASTBURN HAS HAD ONLY ONE, AND HAS PERSONALLY SHARED IN ALL THE TRIAL WORK, IN ADDITION TO ADMINISTERING THE AFFAIRS OF THE OFFICE.

MR. EASTBURN, IN A SPEECH RECENTLY MADE AT A PUBLIC MEETING, SAID: "IT IS A POPULAR BELIEF THAT THE OFFICE OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY USUALLY HAS A CLOSE POLITICAL TIE-UP, AND THAT THE ADMINISTRATION OF THAT OFFICE IS FREQUENTLY CONTROLLED BY POLITICAL CONSIDERATIONS. I WANT TO SAY PUBLICLY, AS ONE OF THE GREATEST COMPLIMENTS THAT CAN BE PAID TO ANY ORGANIZATION, THAT DURING THE EIGHT YEARS OF MY ADMINISTRATION IN THIS OFFICE, NO ONE IN THE REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION OF BUCKS COUNTY HAS SOUGHT EITHER DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY TO INFLUENCE ANY ACTION OF THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE."

OSCAR P. WIGGINS, FOR PROTHONOTARY

MR. WIGGINS IS A POPULAR AND WELL KNOWN FARMER RESIDING IN UPPER MAKEFIELD TOWNSHIP, WHERE HE WAS BORN AND HAS LIVED NEARLY ALL HIS LIFE. THE ESTEEM AND CONFIDENCE BY WHICH HE HAS BEEN HELD BY HIS NEIGHBORS, IS EVIDENCED BY THE FACT THAT THEY HAVE CONTINUOUSLY ELECTED HIM TOWNSHIP ASSESSOR FOR THE PAST EIGHTEEN YEARS.

WINSTON W. LINDES, FOR DIRECTOR OF THE POOR

MR. LINDES, A WELL KNOWN FARMER AND RESIDENT OF MILFORD TOWNSHIP, BY HIS INTELLIGENCE AND BUSINESS EXPERIENCE, IS PARTICULARLY FITTED TO FULFILL THE DUTIES OF THE OFFICE OF POOR DIRECTOR, WHICH DUTIES PROMISE TO BE MORE THAN ARDUOUS, NOT ONLY IN LOOKING AFTER THE MANAGEMENT OF THE COUNTY ALMSHOUSE, BUT ALSO IN THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE WORK CONNECTED WITH THE WELFARE RELIEF.

DR. WILLIAM C. LeCOMPTE, FOR JURY COMMISSIONER

DR. LeCOMPTE, A RESIDENT OF BRISTOL BOROUGH, AND A LIEUTENANT COLONEL IN THE WORLD WAR, IS ACTIVE IN ALL THAT PERTAINS TO THE CIVIL LIFE OF BUCKS COUNTY. HE IS ESTEEMED AND APPRECIATED AS A USEFUL AND PUBLIC SPIRITED CITIZEN.

DO YOU BELIEVE THAT MR. EASTBURN, MR. WIGGINS, MR. LINDES, AND DR. LeCOMPTE TO BE QUALIFIED TO PERFORM THE DUTIES OF THE OFFICES THEY SEEK?

DO YOU BELIEVE THEY ARE, OR WOULD BECOME DISHONEST, OR CHEAT, OR DEFRAUD?

OF COURSE YOU DON'T!

THEN GO TO THE POLLS ON NOVEMBER 7th AND GIVE THEM YOUR HEARTY SUPPORT. REBUKE THE OPPOSITION FOR THEIR "CAMPAIGN OF WHISPERING," "INNUEENDO" AND "INSINUATION." MAKE A SPECIAL EFFORT TO GO TO THE ELECTION AND VOTE FOR THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES AND GET YOUR NEIGHBORS TO DO LIKEWISE.
